TOKYO, JAPAN – Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism (MLIT) of the Government of Japan starts issuing press releases in English with topics on land economy and real estate and construction industries on July 1, 2013.

Japanese economy has never been more globalized than ever – this is why MLIT thinks it crucial to enhance public relations about our policies on land economy and real estate and construction industries. MLIT will, therefore, increase the number of press releases in English about policies on these fields to promote external business of Japanese construction and real estate industries and to expand foreign investments to Japanese real estate market.

Press releases in English will be issued on MLIT's English website at:

<http://www.mlit.go.jp/en/index.html>

By delivering various information with press releases in English, we will more actively support internationalization of Japanese construction and real estate industries.
