

Sekishū-Washi (Japanese Paper)

By Public Transport

Shopping

According to the famous Man'yo poet Kakinomoto Hitomaro, the production of this Japanese paper began during the Nara Period (710 AD~ 794 AD). The paper was noted for its strength despite being lightweight and soft. As a result, Sekishu-washi Japanese paper became designated as a Traditional Craft by the Japanese Government. At first, the paper has a yellowish hue, but as time passes the paper starts to turn into a beautiful white color. "Sekishu-Banshi" is a type of "Sekishu-washi" Japanese paper that was designated as a UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity.

Hamada Brand "Three Donchichi Fish"

By Foot

Shopping

"Donchichi" was once an expression used by children to describe the music of "kagura", but is now currently used to represent Iwami Kagura as a whole. Altogether "Donchichi horse mackerel", "Donchichi black-throat sea perch" and "Donchichi flatfish" are known as the "Three Donchichi Fish" that represent Hamada city in Shimane.

Iwami Ware

By Public Transport

Shopping

Today it is designated as a Traditional Craft by the Japanese Government, but the story of Iwami ceramics began during the mid-18th century in the Iwami Region of Shimane. Iwami-ware is well known for its "hando" which are large water jugs that are over 1m in height. During the Edo Period (1603~1867), these water jugs were transported by "kitamae-bune" cargo ships that sailed along the Sea of Japan. While large pieces are still made today, recent day production has shifted to smaller everyday-use items such as rice bowls.

Iwami Ginzan Silver Mine

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Iwami Ginzan Silver Mine is a currently non-active mine located in Oda city, Shimane. Admired as an example of coexistence with nature, it was designated as a UNESCO World Cultural Heritage Site. The area consists of the old silver mines, mining towns, the roads to and from the mines, the ports of distributions, and the port towns. The facilities, equipment, and defense structures, as well as the traditional townscape and surrounding natural environment are all well-preserved examples showing how conscious they were of the surrounding environment.

Tsuwano historical district

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Enjoy the atmosphere of the castle town Tsuwano while strolling through the townscape of continual white plaster walls and red roof tiled buildings, all surrounded by mountains. Along the main street, Tonomachi-dori, colorful koi carp of all sizes swim in the canals. You can also see the Japanese Irises in bloom during the beginning of summer, while in autumn, the rows of ginkgo trees turn bright yellow. The district from Tonomachi-dori to Honmachi-dori is designated as a [Preservation District for Groups of Traditional Buildings] and is where many merchant houses, like sake breweries and gift shops, still operate out of their old buildings.

Tsuwano castle ruins

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Tsuwano Castle is ranked as one of the 100 Best Castles in Japan. Construction on the castle started in 1295 by Yoshimi Yoriyuki, who came from Noto Province (Northern Isikawa Prefecture), and was completed 30 years later by his son, Yorinao. It was very rare for castles to be used for long periods of time, and Tsuwano Castle which was covered in repairs made by the lords throughout the years was finally demolished in 1875. To get to the castle, you can take the 5-minute chair lift up the mountain, and then walk for about 15-20 minutes. At the ruins, you can see the stone walls up close and get a sense of their sheer size. The castle ruins are the only place where you can see the whole town of Tsuwano.

Hamada Castle Museum

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

This museum lies at the foot of Hamada Castle Ruins, and is free of charge. From Hamada Castle, which acted as the center of Hamada Domain for 250 years following its fortification in 1619, to the Japan Heritage-designated port which acted as a stop for Kitamae-bune cargo ships, and Tonoura, where the townscape remains the same from the Edo Period (1603~1867), Hamada Castle Museum features a variety of exhibitions in a historical building that once served as the emperor's temporary place of sojourn.

Iwami Tatamigaura Seaside

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Designated a Natural Monument by the Japanese Government. The fissures that run vertically and horizontally in the terrain makes it look as if 1,000 tatami mats were laid out over the surface. Being a product of a seismic shift from 16 million years ago, you can find fossilized trees and shells scattered along the surface giving it the nickname "nature made museum". It is a must visit during high tide because the area looks like the Uyuni Salt Flats.
