Puffer Fish

By Foot

Dining

The puffer fish caught in the rough ocean of Kanmon Strait is claimed to be the best in the country. The best season goes from mid-November to mid-February. The firm meat of the fresh puffer fish makes for delicious deep-fry and hot-pot, not to mention sashimi.

Mojiko's Original Baked Curry

By Foot

Dining

There are many stories surrounding the origin of this dish. The most plausible one is that in the late 50's a cafe in Moji Port started to serve curry with cheese on top in gratin style.

The perfect combination of curry, cheese, and soft-boiled egg makes it one of the most popular dish at Moji Port.

Kokura Fabric

By Public Transport

Shopping

Kokura Fabric is traditional cotton cloth, which was popular in Japan from 17C. The fabric is soft and strong and was originally used for hakama (kilts for men) and obi (sache) of samurai. Woven pre-dyed cottonyarn, technically much more warp than weft, the cloth shows clear vertical stripes and the marvelous three-dimensional effect the stripes create is the most distinctive of the weaving.

Kokura Castle

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Kokura Castle was built in 1602. It is famous for its beautiful Chinese style main tower. The stone wall was built by simply piling up natural stones, and 8km long outer wall was one of the most magnificent structures of its kind when it was built. What we see today is the main castle tower built in 1959.

Kanmon Strait

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Kanmon Strait, a stage for various historical events since the old days, links Honshu and Kyushu islands. There are approximately 700 ships passing on a daily basis, making it one of the transportation hubs in Japan. The Kanmon Bridge, Kanmon Tunnel Footpath, a pedestrian tunnel found only in Japan, and Kanmon Roadway Tunnel exclusive for vehicle use are three roads in an almost parallel manner that links to the opposite shore. The view of Kanmon Strait from the second observatory of Mekari Park, Norfolk Plaza and Mekari Shrine is overwhelming.

Tobata Gion Festival

By Public Transport

Topics

Tobata Gion Festival is one of the important intangible cultural assets of Japan. Proud of its 200 year old history, the festival consists of a traditional march with 12 large banners during the day. The night view changes after all decorations are cleared as it is replaced by a light pyramid consisting of 309 paper lanterns stacked in 12 levels and standing about 10 meters tall. People marching as they rhythmically say "yoitosa, yoitosa" is a must-see.
