Kankoromochi Rice Cake

By Public Transport

Dining

In the Goto dialect, "kankoro" means sweet potato cut into thin slices and dried in the sun. The sweet potatoes are harvested, peeled, boiled and dried in the cold northern wind. Making hot kankoromochi rice cakes with mortars and pestles is a popular activity to try.

KentoshiFurusatokan

By Public Transport

Shopping

Between 1,200 and 1,300 years ago, Japan dispatched an envoy via the Goto Islands to gather information on overseas situations, advanced Chinese technology and Buddhist scriptures. The KentoshiFurusatokan has exhibit corners and a theater that provide an introduction to the history of Goto as it relates to envoys as well as a restaurant that serves local cuisine featuring native ingredients and a souvenir shop.

Osezaki Lighthouse

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

The Osezaki Lighthouse has been selected as one of the top 50 lighthouses of Japan and features one of the 100 most beautiful sunsets. It is on the East China Sea, and the precipitous cliffs ranging from 100 to 150 meters in height offer a spectacular view that extends 15 kilometers into the distance. The magnificent picture of the white lighthouse against the blue sea is one of the most popular inspirational spots of the Goto Islands and is famous as the setting of the film "Villain."

Dozaki Church

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

First constructed in 1880, Dozaki Church was rebuilt in 1907. It was the first church to be built in Goto after the Anti-Christian Edicts were rescinded and the church was founded in honor of Saint Joao Soao de Goto, one of the 26 martyrs of Japan. There are artifacts from the period of Christian persecution in Japan inside the Gothic-style brick church.

Mt. Onidake

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

Mt. Onidake is the symbol of Goto. Standing 315 meters above sea level, this volcanic mountain is covered in grass and, contrary to its name "Oni" (ogre), it has a beautiful streamlined shape. It is one of the well-known locations in Saikai National Park and serves as a place of rest for citizens. If you trek along the ridge, you can look down on the urban area of Fukue and out in the distance at Kamigoto. In late summer you will find plants like tiger lilies, and in the autumn Japanese gentians

Street of the Samurai Quarter

By Foot

Main Attractions

Samurai houses line the street near the ruins of Fukue Castle. The stone walls of the moat next to the gate consist of round stones called "kobore-ishi," and there are semicircular stones at either end in a unique design not found elsewhere. Many of the gates are of a majestic "yakuimon" style. Next door there is the Bukeyashiki-doriFurusatokan, which has a Japanese room for resting, a refreshment corner and a place where you can try making baramon-dako kites, plant dyeing and weaving

Former Gorin Church

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

This is the second oldest wooden church after Oura Church and is a precious architectural structure from the early Meiji period when the Anti-Christian Edicts were rescinded and churches began being constructed. It is one of the "Churches and Christian Sites in Nagasaki" and had registered as the representative of a UNESCO World Cultural Heritage site on July 2018. The space inside is of a Gothic-style design that is unimaginable based on the Japanese-style exterior of the building.
