

Miyazaki Beef

By Foot

Dining

Miyazaki Beef has a mellow flavor and the meat is juicy. At the same time, it has a rich flavor that is refreshing and is not too strong. This beef won the first prize consecutively at the "Wagyu (Japanese beef) Olympics," which is held once every five years. Try this beef which Miyazaki is proud to say has the best taste in Japan.

Pastured chicken

By Public Transport

Dining

"JidoriSumibiyaki" (char-grilled locally grown chicken) is the taste of Miyazaki. Among types of "JidoriSumibiyaki," Miyazaki JitokkoSumibiyaki (a char-grilled local chicken called "Jitokko") is particularly delicious, as the true taste of chicken and the refreshing aroma of the roasting spread after a soft crunch.

Cuisine with fresh seafoods

By Foot

Dining

Miyazaki produces some of the best dried whitebait in Japan in terms of quality. "Chirimén-don" (boiled dried whitebait over rice) is served year-round. A mound of dried whitebait is placed on a hot bowl of rice and the taste is refreshing. Dried whitebait can also be enjoyed by deep frying it with vegetables, giving it a nice crunchy texture. The "Kaisen-don" (seafood over rice) meal and the "Nichinan Specialty Fish Noodles (gyoudon)" (wheat noodles made with minced flying fish) meal are popular. There are also direct sales stores.

Miyazaki Shrine

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

This is a shrine pavilion with a simple design which was built with Sano cedar trees using "nagare-zukuri" (streamlined roof style), a traditional Shinto shrine architectural style. Inside Higashi (east) Shin-en Garden is the Oshirafuji (great white wisteria), which is a natural treasure that is estimated to be over 400 years old. The large forest at Miyazaki Shrine is a paradise for wild birds. The shrine is dedicated to Emperor Jinmu. His father, Ugayafukiaezu no Mikoto, is enshrined in the "aidono" (building which enshrines several deities) on the left; and Tamayori-hime, his mother, is enshrined in the "aidono" on the right.

Festival of Miyazaki Shrine

By Public Transport

Topics

This festival is affectionately known as "Jinmu-sama." Shinshin processions and mikoshi (palanquin) processions, which resemble scenes depicted in historical "emaki" (illustrated narrative hand scrolls), move down the street from Miyazaki Shrine to downtown Miyazaki. The "Shanshan Uma," in which a bride parades down the street on a decorated horse, is also a highlight of the parade. At night, Takachiho-dori (a street in front of Miyazaki station) is turned into a pedestrian zone and becomes crowded with people, who are there to enjoy events on stage and other activities.
