

Mitsuhamayaki

By Foot

Dining

This familiar everyday fare from the Mitsu area of Matsuyama City traces its roots back to "issen-yoshoku" (a dish similar to okonomiyaki) from before the war. It features soba or udon noodles, plenty of cabbage and other ingredients on top of a crepe and covered in a fragrant sauce that stimulates the appetite. Beef fat and pink fish sausage are other popular toppings in Mitsuhamama. The locals also order soba or udon as a base for the crepe.
