Hofu Tenmangu Shrine

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

This shrine is dedicated to Michizane Sugawara, the god of academic scholarship. Together with Kitano Shrine in Kyoto and Dazaifu Shrine in Fukuoka, this is one of the three great Tenjin Shrines of Japan. Legend says that Michizane stopped at Hofu while traveling to Kyushu, and so loved the place that he promised to return here as a spirit after his death. It is said that this was constructed in 904, the year after Michizane's death in Kyushu.

Akiyoshidai Plateau(Geo Park)

By Public Transport

Topics

Akiyoshidai was born eons ago as a coral reef in the far-off sea. Approximately 350 million years later, the result is a karst plateau – a limestone plateau containing sinkholes and caves, and one of the largest in Japan. Within the limestone can be seen fossils that indicate the long history of the Earth and Akiyoshidai, including fossils of coral and sea lilies. There are a number of trails through the natural expanse of Akiyoshidai where visitors enjoy walking and jogging.
