

Amami Kokuto Shouchu

By Public Transport

Dining

In the Amami Islands, brown sugar is made by boiling sugarcane extract and used for making "shochu" liquor. Kokutoshochu (brown sugar shochu liquor) was specially approved in the Amami Islands by the Japanese government when the islands were returned to Japan from the United States in 1953. Among all types of authentic "shochu," Kokutoshochu, which has a sweet and tropical flavor, is the closest to a Western-type liquor.

Amami-Keihan(Chicken with Rice)

By Public Transport

Dining

This is a local specialty dish of AmamiOshima. It is said to have been served to officials from the Satsuma domain during the Edo Period. It has a light taste and invites the appetite, and is perfect for the hot weather in Amami. Chicken breast tender, thin-sliced omelet, shiitake mushrooms, and green onions are placed on rice. Then, a hot chicken soup (made with local chickens) is poured on top. Try this dish at any restaurants in the city that serve local specialty dishes or at a hotel restaurant!

Kinsakubaru Virgin forest

By Public Transport

Main Attractions

This is a virgin forest in AmamiOshima where many subtropical broadleaved trees still grow. Posters showing trees such as Castanopsis sieboldii (which is believed to be 130 years old) and the Chinese guger, as well as the Flying spider-monkey tree fern made the forest into a tourist attraction. Amami's indigenous plants, which were discovered for the first time in Japan; and indigenous species of birds and animals, such as the Lidth's Jay (a valuable national natural treasure) and the Amami rabbit; make their habitat in the forest.
