

Mt. Ohata Hiking Trail

The six-kilometer, three-hour (one-way) trail to Mt. Ohata (1,353 m) offers hikers panoramic views of the Kirishima Mountain Range. There are also long hiking routes branching off from Lake Ohata that take you to Mt. Hinamori (1,334 m) and Mt. Maruoka (1,327 m).

Hinamori Auto Campground

This fully-equipped campground 700 meters above sea level is nestled in the Kirishima Mountain Range. The grounds offer peaceful mountain scenery and starry skies in a climate that is cool even in the height of summer.

Safety Warning

Always check volcanic warnings before setting out, as the area's volcanic activity levels are subject to change. Note that the Hinamori Dai main gate closes at 7:00 pm (5:00 pm in winter). Be sure to return with time to spare.
