

Geothermal Heat Vent

The small oval-shaped hole seen here is a naturally occurring hole that vents heat generated by geothermal energy. If you place your hand near the entrance to the hole, you will feel a gentle flow of warm air. During the winter months, it is easy to spot the vent's location due to the melted snow around it.