

Karst Formations

The unusual terrain on this part of the coastline is formed from karst limestone deposits that have been sculpted into jagged peaks by groundwater and rain. The white of the exposed rock creates a powerful contrast with the darker seas beyond, making it a popular attraction for hikers and photographers.