

Landscapes Formed by the Ocean Currents

The Japan Current, or Kuroshio, which flows to the west of the Keramas, creates complicated currents around the islands. These currents carry the fruit and seeds of plants such as the Adan tree and beach morning glory, spreading them from island to island. You can see them growing on the island shores.